No. 21229

SUE H. HALL,

Appellant

v.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Appellee

ON APPEAL FROM THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA, CENTRAL DIVISION

BRIEF AND APPENDIX FOR THE APPELLEE

JURISDICTIONAL STATEMENT

Plaintiff brought this action, in the United States District Court for the Southern District of California, seeking damages from the United States under the Federal Tort Claims Act, 28 U.S.C. 1346(b) and 2671 et seq. The district court granted the Government's motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction on the ground that plaintiff's exclusive remedy was under the Federal Employees' Compensation Act, 5 U.S.C. 751 et seq. (hereinafter referred to as FECA). The jurisdiction of this Court to hear the present appeal from that dismissal is based on 28 U.S.C. 1291.

FACTS

In her complaint in this Federal Tort Claims Act action, plaintiff, a civilian employee of the Army on her way to work, alleged that she was injured when the Army bus in which she was then riding collided with a tractor-trailer. Alleging further that the accident was caused by the negligence of the driver of the Army bus, she sought approximately $355,000 in damages.

In its answer, the Government raised the affirmative defense that the district court had no jurisdiction since the action was barred by the FECA. The Government also moved to dismiss, or in the alternative for summary judgment, on the ground of lack of jurisdiction.

In opposition to the Government's motion, appellant submitted an affidavit to the district court. Her affidavit admitted that she was employed as a nurse at Fort Irwin, California, and that "the accident occurred while on the way to work" in the Army bus. She resided in Barstow, California, which is approximately 35 miles away from Fort Irwin. She frequently rode to and from work on a bus owned and operated by the United States Army; however, there was no requirement that she must ride the bus. The bus was available to anyone who wished to use it, although it was primarily used by military and civilian employees of Fort Irwin. On the morning bus which left Barstow at 6:15 a.m. for Fort Irwin and on the afternoon bus which left Fort Irwin at 4:30 p.m. for Barstow, a 25 cent fee was charged. On the night-time runs, on which Mrs. Hall rode since she worked the night shift, no fee was ever charged. On November 24, 1963, Mrs. Hall boarded the bus for Fort Irwin at Barstow. At approximately 10:36 p.m. on the public highway 30 miles from Fort Irwin, the bus was involved in an accident, causing the injuries which led to the filing by Mrs. Hall of the present Federal Tort Claims Act suit against the United States.

On August 23, 1965, the district court granted the Government's motion to dismiss the complaint for lack of jurisdiction. From this order of dismissal appellant noted an appeal on October 21, 1965. Thereafter, appellant on May 27, 1966, filed an application with the U.S. Department of Labor for administrative compensation under the FECA. That application is currently pending.

STATUTE INVOLVED

5 U.S.C. 751(a) and 757(b) of the Federal Employees' Compensation Act provide as follows:

5 U.S.C. 751(a):

(a) The United States shall pay compensation as hereinafter specified for the disability or death of an employee resulting from personal injury sustained while in the performance of his duty, but no compensation shall be paid if the injury or death is caused by willful misconduct of the employee or by the employee's intention to bring about the injury or death of himself or of another, or if intoxication of the injured employee is the proximate cause of the injury or death.

(b) The liability of the United States or any of its instrumentalities under sections 751--756, 757--781, 783--791 and 793 of this title or any extension thereof with respect to the injury or death of an employee shall be exclusive, and in place, of all other liability of the United States or such instrumentality to the employee, his legal representative, spouse, dependents, next of kin, and anyone otherwise entitled to recover damages from the United States or such instrumentality, on account of such injury or death, in any direct judicial proceedings in a civil action or in admiralty, or by proceedings, whether administrative or judicial, under any other workmen's compensation law or under any Federal tort liability statute: Provided, however, That this subsection shall not apply to a master or a member of the crew of any vessel.

QUESTION PRESENTED

Whether the district court properly dismissed plaintiff's complaint under the Federal Tort Claims Act in view of the fact that the Federal Employees' Compensation Act provides the exclusive remedy against the United States for a federal employee injured while in the performance of his duties.

SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

The Federal Employees' Compensation Act is the exclusive remedy of an employee of the United States injured "while in the performance of his duty". Mrs. Hall clearly was injured "while in the performance of her duty" within the meaning of the FECA, the workmen's compensation act for federal employees. It is settled by uniform judicial decisions that an employee is deemed to be acting within the course or performance of his duties if he is injured while riding to work in a vehicle under the control of the employer, or where there is an implied contract that the employer furnish transportation. Here, the United States, as employer, did furnish a vehicle under its control to transport Mrs. Hall to work, and there was an implied contract that it furnish transportation. Moreover, FECA coverage of the present case is confirmed by the administrative award of benefits under the FECA to the estate of Jewel Young, a co-employee of Mrs. Hall at Fort Irwin, who was killed riding to work on the same Army bus in the same accident which caused Mrs. Hall's injuries. Since FECA coverage thus existed here, the district court properly held that it had no jurisdiction to entertain Mrs. Hall's tort action. Furthermore, this being a case where FECA coverage is clear, no purpose would be served by this court granting appellant a stay so as to enable the administrative agency to make the primary determination of coverage.

ARGUMENT

I. SINCE APPELLANT'S INJURIES, INCURRED GOING TO WORK ON A BUS PROVIDED BY HER EMPLOYER, WERE SUSTAINED "WHILE IN THE PERFORMANCE OF HER DUTY", HER FEDERAL TORT CLAIMS ACT SUIT IS BARRED BY THE FECA.

A. The exclusive remedy for a federal employee injured while in the performance of her duty is that provided for by the FECA. The Federal Employees' Compensation Act, 5 U.S.C. 751 et seq., establishes a specialized and comprehensive compensation scheme for a federal government employee who sustains a personal injury "while in the performance of his duty." Where an injury to a federal employee is within the coverage of the FECA, no action based upon that injury may be maintained under the Federal Tort Claims Act or under any other federal tort liability statute. The FECA remedy is exclusive. E.g., Johansen v. United States, 343 U.S. 427 (1952); Patterson v. United States, 359 U.S. 495 (1959); Weyerhaeuser S.S. Co. v. United States, 372 U.S. 597, 601 (1963); Thol v. United States, 218 F. 2d 12 (C.A. 9, 1954); Posegate v. United States, 288 F. 2d 11 (C.A. 9, 1961), certiorari denied, 368 U.S. 832; Soderman v. United States, 313 F. 2d 694 (C.A. 9, 1963), certiorari denied 372 U.S. 968; Gunston v. United States, 235 F. Supp. 349, aff'd 358 F. 2d 303 (C.A. 9, 1966). The critical question therefore is whether Mrs. Hall's injuries come within the coverage of the FECA; that is, whether her injuries were sustained "while in the performance of her duty."

B. Appellant's injuries were sustained "while in the performance of her duty". A long line of judicial decisions make it clear that Mrs. Hall was acting "while in the performance of her duty". "While in the performance of her duty" is, of course, synonymous with the phrase in the typical workmen's compensation statute, "arising out of and in the course of employment".^{1/} The general rule in workmen's compensation law is that "if the trip to and from work is made in a truck, bus, car or other vehicle under the control of the employer, an injury during that trip is incurred in the course of employment" for workmen's compensation benefit purposes. 1 Larson, Workmen's Compensation 279 (sec. 17.10)(1965 ed.). E.g., Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. v. Gray, 137 F. 2d 926 (C.A. 9, 1963); Peski v. Todd & Brown, Inc., 158 F. 2d 59 (C.A. 7, 1946); Shreve v. Hot Shoppes, Inc., 184 F. Supp. 436 (D.D.C., 1960), aff'd 292 F. 2d 761 (C.A.D.C., 1961); Guarantee Ins. Co. v. Industrial Acc. Comm'n, 97 Cal. App. 2d 46, 217 P. 2d 51 (1950); Harlan v. Industrial Acc. Comm'n, 194 Cal. 352, 228 Pac. 654 (1924).

1/ The U.S. Department of Labor has consistently held that "while in the performance of his duty" in the FECA is synonymous with "arising out of and in the course of employment". See, e.g., In the Matter of Bernard D. Blum, 1 E.C.A.B. 1, 2 (1947); In the Matter of Harold Vandiver, 4 E.C.A.B. 195, 196 (1951); In the Matter of Lillie J. Wiley, 6 E.C.A.B. 500, 502 (1954); In the Matter of Helen K. Mickler, 15 E.C.A.B. 392 (1964).

In Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. v. Gray, 137 F. 2d 926 (C.A. 9, 1943), an employee was returning to his work site, after a day off, in a truck hired by his employer for the purpose of transporting his employees to the work site without charge. The truck was involved in an accident, and the employee was injured. In an action under the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, 33 U.S.C. 901, et seq., closely analogous to the ^{2/} FECA, this court held that the employee could recover. The court at 137 F. 2d 928 affirmed the following finding of the Commissioner:

^{2/} The Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act authorizes compensation benefits if the employee suffers an injury "arising out of and in the course of employment".

"Claimant herein was in the course of returning to work after a holiday in Honolulu and using a conveyance provided by the employer for such purpose. Therefore, the injury arose out of and in the course of employment."

Appellant suggests a different result is warranted here because any member of the public could ride the Army buses which were not restricted to Fort Irwin employees. But the underlying reason for employer liability under compensation acts where he provides the transportation to and from work is that he has "expanded the range of the employment and the attendant risks". 1 Larson, supra, at 282. Thus, the employee, because of the fact of his employment, can be hurt through the action of his employer, whether on the job or on the employer's bus. And it makes no difference, therefore, that non-employees are riding on the employer's conveyance, for the employee is just as much exposed to these risks whether or not he is sharing his ride with a non-employee.

E.g., City and County of San Francisco v. Industrial Acc. Comm'n, 61 Cal. App. 2d 248, 142 P. 2d 760 (1943).

There is an additional and independent reason showing that Mrs. Hall's injuries must be viewed as having occurred in the performance of her duty. In Cardillo v. Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., 330 U.S. 469 (1947), the employee was driving home from work, driving his own car on the public highway, when he was injured in an accident. The Deputy Commissioner of the United States Employees' Compensation Commission held that he could recover under the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act.^{3/} An action was then brought in the courts to set aside the order. The Supreme Court held that the district court properly dismissed the complaint because the employer had contracted to and did furnish or provide transportation to and from work.

The situation in the present case corresponds exactly to that in Cardillo. Although there was no express contract that the United States furnish Mrs. Hall transportation to Fort Irwin, such a contract may be implied. The Army was not providing the bus service in order that the Barstow area have public transportation.^{4/} It is significant that the only day time runs of the Army bus mentioned in Mrs. Hall's affidavit were the Barstow-Fort Irwin run leaving Barstow at 6:15 a.m. and the Fort Irwin-Barstow run leaving Fort Irwin at 4:30 p.m. Quite obviously, those runs were scheduled to bring Fort Irwin employees to and from work at the proper time. Although

3/ The Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act has been adopted as the Workmen's Compensation Law of the District of Columbia, D.C. Code, Title 36, Sec. 501 (1961 ed.).

4/ The district court case of Desousa v. Panama Canal Co., 202 F. Supp. 22 (S.D. N.Y., 1962), relied on by appellant (p. 9 of her brief) is thus not in point, since the plaintiff in that case was traveling to work on a public transportation system.

Mrs. Hall does not specify the times of the night-time runs, even more clearly they were designed to bring Fort Irwin's employees to and from Fort Irwin, for those runs were free of charge. While anyone could ride the buses, Mrs. Hall admits that they were used primarily by civilian and military employees of the United States. It is apparent that the only reason the United States was supplying the bus service was to bring Mrs. Hall and other civilian and military employees needing transportation to and from their jobs at Fort Irwin. And it is equally clear that the United States was furnishing the buses for the same reason that the employer in Cardillo was providing such service. Indeed, the description the Court gave of the job location in Cardillo exactly describes the present case:

There was also evidence that the distant location of the Marine Base project, the hours of work and the inadequacy of public transportation facilities all combined to make it essential, as a practical matter, that the employer furnish transportation in some manner if employees were to be obtained for the job. This was not a case of employees traveling in the same city between home and work. Extended cross-country transportation was necessary. And it was transportation of a type that an employer might fairly be expected to furnish. 330 U.S. at 484.

"Each employment relationship must be perused to discover whether the employer, by express agreement or by course of dealing, contracted to and did furnish this type of transportation."

Cardillo v. Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., supra, at 480. Here

it is clear that by "course of dealing" the Government contracted to furnish bus transportation to Mrs. Hall whenever she desired it to go to and from work.

Moreover, a recent decision of the Department of Labor under the FECA involving another Fort Irwin employee in the same accident as that which injured Mrs. Hall, still further confirms the view that Mrs. Hall was injured "while in the performance of her duty."

Jewel P. Young, a resident of Barstow, was a telephone operator at Fort Irwin. On November 24, 1963, she was riding to Fort Irwin on the same bus with Mrs. Hall. As a result of the accident, Mrs. Young was killed. Mrs. Young's administratrix brought suit against the Government under the Federal Tort Claims Act in Elaine M. Hall, Adm'x of the Estate of Jewel P. Young v. United States, (S.D. Calif. C.D., Civ. No. 64-1589-TC, 1965). Judge Clark granted the Government's motion for summary judgment on the ground that the plaintiff's exclusive remedy was under the FECA. (App.1a-3a). Mrs. Young's administratrix then brought an administrative claim for benefits under the FECA. The Department of Labor awarded benefits (App.5a,6a), thereby determining that Mrs. Young's injuries were incurred "while in the performance of her duty". Since Mrs. Young's estate received benefits, it is thus clear that Mrs. Hall, being injured under exactly the same circumstances, was also injured "while in the performance of her duty".

II. THIS COURT SHOULD AFFIRM THE DISMISSAL
OF THE COMPLAINT AND SHOULD NOT STAY
PROCEEDINGS PENDING FURTHER CONSIDERATION OF APPELLANT'S RECENTLY FILED CLAIM FOR BENEFITS UNDER THE FECA.

If this were a case where it were not clear whether FECA coverage existed, we would have no objection to appellant's request for alternative relief; namely, that this court stay proceedings until appellant is notified of the administrative decision on her pending claim under the FECA. This was the procedure followed in Somma v. United States, 283 F. 2d 149 (C.A. 3, 1960). The court there acted on the theory that it should stay judicial proceedings until the administrative body determined whether the injuries had been sustained in the performance of duty for the purpose of FECA coverage. But here there is no need for such a stay, for in light of the judicial decisions and the Department of Labor's action in granting relief to the estate of Jewel Young, Mrs. Hall's fellow passenger, there is no doubt that Mrs. Hall's injuries were "in the performance of her duty" and hence fall within the scope of the FECA.

Moreover, appellant should not now be allowed to contend that a stay should be granted. The accident occurred in 1963. But it was not until May 1966 that she filed a claim under the FECA.

Finally, we want to note that a stay is not warranted in order to see if the Department of Labor decides on the merits actually to make an award of monetary benefits to Mrs. Hall.

As we have shown above, it is clear that Mrs. Hall was injured within the performance of her duty, and hence falls within the scope of the FECA. Once an employee is within the coverage of the FECA, sole jurisdiction of the claim rests with the Department of Labor, and the question of the extent of monetary benefits to be awarded, if any, rests with the exclusive determination of the Secretary of Labor.^{5/} This court has recently so held. Gunston v. United States, 235 F. Supp. 349 (N.D. Cal., 1964), aff'd 358 F. 2d 303 (C.A. 9, 1966); Soderman v. United States Civil Service Commission, 313 F. 2d 694 (C.A. 9, 1963), certiorari denied 372 U.S. 968.

Dear Sir:

We have received reports of the accident resulting in the death of Jewel Edna Young on November 24, 1963 and have determined that the death comes within the scope of the Federal Employees' Compensation Act.

In order that we may disburse any burial allowance indicated, please furnish Form CA-42 or the required certificate covering the appointment of an administrator or executor. The necessary form and instructions were sent to you on April 12, 1966.

We should also be informed whether any claim was made against a third party other than the United States. Any damages so recovered, after deduction of a reasonable attorney's fee and costs of suit, would have to be offset by a compensation entitlement before any disbursement could be made.

Sincerely yours,

A. B. Schroeder

Re: Jewel P. Young, Deceased

Gentlemen:

Enclosed please find a Claim for Compensation on Account of Death, together with an Affidavit in Support of Claim.

The reason that this claim was not filed within one month after death occurred was due to the fact that originally we were advised by the representative from Camp Irwin, that a Complaint should be filed for Wrongful Death in the United States District Court, Southern District of California, Central Division. Such a Complaint was filed, No. 64-1589-EC.

After considerable legal proceedings, it was determined by the United States District Court, that at the time of the death, the decedent, Jewel P. Young, was riding on United States Army bus, because of the fact of her employment and that therefore, plaintiff is subject to the Federal Employees Compensation Act, Title 5, USC, paragraph 757 sub(b), which precluded the court from having jurisdiction. The court further directed that the claim then be filed as herein submitted.

Very truly yours,

s/ Arthwell C. Hayton
